

empowering communication

We all communicate in different ways.

At Emble, all forms of communication are embraced and accepted.

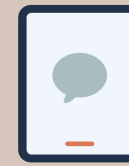

Some of us use words to talk with our mouths.

Some of us use our hands to sign and share our thoughts.

We can also use pictures to tell a story or share how we feel.

Typing on a keyboard or a tablet is another way to say what we think.

Smiling can show that we are happy.

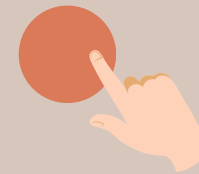

Frowning might mean we are sad or upset.

Using a device helps some of us communicate.

Writing words on a paper can be another way to share our ideas.

Pointing to what we want can help others understand us.

Every way of communicating is valid and wonderful.

It's okay to communicate in the way that works best for you.

We all have our own unique voices and ways to connect with the world.
